FUND'S PERFORMANCE COMPARED TO BENCHMARK

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

The US Federal Funds Rate was raised 25 basis points (bps) to 1.0% citing continued strengthening of labour market and noting rises in household spending and inflation. The dot plot of a total of 3 hikes for the year remains unchanged. Prospect of Federal Reserve reducing its balance sheet was also brought up. Meanwhile the defeat of the far right populist in the Dutch elections was a welcomed relief.

Bank Negara Malaysia (BNM) kept the Overnight Policy Rate (OPR) unchanged at the start of the month while narrowing the Gross Domestic Product (GDP) outlook band to 4.3%-4.8%. However, they warned of higher cost driven inflation to 3.0%-4.0% for the year on the backdrop of higher global commodity prices. Incidentally February inflation hit 4.5%, highest in almost nine years on higher fuel and transport costs
