FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

Equities had a positive month of May, with both Developed and Emerging Markets posting gains. The 10-year US treasury yield increased from 4.16% in April to 4.40% in May. The US Dollar Index shed 0.1% MoM to close at 99.3 points.

The FBM KLCI decreased 2.1% MoM to close at 1,508.4 points in May. Stocks were weighed by poor 1Q earnings and Malaysia's MSCI weight cut. The best performing sectors for the month were construction, property and technology. Laggard sectors were healthcare, consumer and telecom. Foreign investors were net buyers for the month at RM1.0 billion, a reversal of net sell for the first 4 months of 2025.

Market volatility is expected to persist due to shifting trade policies and ongoing macroeconomic uncertainties, which continue to drive market sentiment. In this environment, Malaysia's low-beta profile offers a relatively defensive stance. The strategy maintains equity exposure at 75–80% in the near term, adopting a nimble stock-picking approach. Emphasis is placed on value and defensive names, with a focus on large-cap stocks and selective exposure to small caps.
