FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

The FBM KLCI declined 1.4% to close at 1,717 points in Feb 2026. Foreign investors posted a second month of net inflows, albeit at a smaller quantum at RM171 million in February (Jan 2026: RM1.2 billion).

Malaysian equities declined in February 2026, reversing earlier gains amid rising geopolitical tensions and uncertainty surrounding US tariff policies. The FBM KLCI reached a year-high of 1,753 on 20 February, supported by stronger-than-expected 4Q25 GDP growth of 6.3% and a firmer ringgit. However, sentiment turned more cautious towards month-end, reflecting regional risk-off sentiment driven by concerns over the AI sector and escalating US-Iran tensions.

Domestically, the MADANI Budget 2026—the first under the 13th Malaysia Plan (RMK13)—anchors the next growth phase on fiscal discipline, inclusivity, and reform. With RM470bn in expenditure, a 3.5% fiscal deficit target, and reform-led revenue measures, the framework strengthens policy credibility while sustaining domestic demand through targeted subsidies and infrastructure investment. Foreign equity ownership in Malaysia also remains at historical lows, creating meaningful room for foreign inflows.

We remain optimistic for 2026. Portfolios stay anchored in domestic recovery sectors—consumer, construction, and utilities—while selectively allocating to future-ready themes such as AI, semiconductors, and data centres. The fund has also tactically positioned on energy names amid the US-Iran tensions. Valuations remain compelling, with the FBM KLCI trading at ~16.1x PER, still below its long-term average.
