Based on the Fund's portfolio returns as at 31 May 2026, the Volatility Factor (VF) for this Fund is 14.2 and is classified as "High" (source: Lipper). "High" includes funds with VF that are above 11.955 but not more than 16.46. The VF means there is a possibility for the Fund in generating an upside return or downside return around this VF. The Volatility Class (VC) is assigned by Lipper based on quintile ranks of VF for qualified funds. VF is subject to monthly revision and VC will be revised every six months. The Fund's portfolio may have changed since this date and there is no guarantee that the Fund will continue to have the same VF or VC in the future. Presently, only funds launched in the market for at least 36 months will display their VF and VC.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

The FBM KLCI fell 1.1% to close at 1,664 points in June 2026. The broader market FBM Emas Index declined by 1.6% to 12,385 points, while the FBM Small Cap Index shed 0.4% to 15,396 points in the same period.

Foreign investors were net sellers in June, recording net outflows of RM2.4 billion (May 2026: net outflows of RM3.7 billion). The FBM KLCI declined to its lowest monthly close YTD, weighed down by persistent foreign selling, regional technology sector weakness, geopolitical uncertainty stemming from the US-Iran conflict, and pre-election risk aversion ahead of the Johor and Negeri Sembilan state polls. Sentiment briefly improved following the signing of the US-Iran peace agreement during mid-month, though concerns over the durability of the truce resurfaced later in the month.

The macro backdrop, resilient Q1 growth, a decade-low unemployment rate, and continued PETRONAS-linked fiscal headroom even as oil prices normalise lower, remains intact, and the current period of foreign selling and ringgit weakness looks more like a rate-differential and sentiment-driven correction than a reassessment of fundamentals.

Portfolios stay anchored in domestic recovery sectors—consumer, construction, and utilities—while selectively allocating to future-ready themes such as AI, semiconductors, and data centres. The fund has also locked in some profit and raised decent cash level to deploy when opportunity arise. Valuations remain compelling, with the FBM KLCI trading at ~14x PER, still below its long-term average.
