Based on the Fund's portfolio returns as at 30 September 2025, the Volatility Factor (VF) for this Fund is 13.4 (MYR Class) and is classified as "High" (source: Lipper). "High" includes funds with VF that are above 10.695 but not more than 14.435. The VF means there is a possibility for the Fund in generating an upside return or downside return around this VF. The Volatility Class (VC) is assigned by Lipper based on quintile ranks of VF for qualified funds. VF is subject to monthly revision and VC will be revised every six months. The Fund's portfolio may have changed since this date and there is no guarantee that the Fund will continue to have the same VF or VC in the future. Presently, only funds launched in the market for at least 36 months will display their VF and VC.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

U.S. equities extended their rally in October, supported by strong corporate earnings, easing trade tensions, and ongoing monetary policy support. The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 2.5%, the S&P 500 gained 2.3%, and the Nasdaq Composite surged 4.7%, outperforming most global peers. In comparison, UK's FTSE 100 advanced 3.9%. Progress in U.S.–China trade negotiations further boosted sentiment, with the U.S. reducing tariffs on fentanyl-related goods and pausing certain reciprocal measures for a year, while China agreed to increase soybean imports and delay new rare-earth export controls.

The Federal Reserve delivered its second 25-basis-point rate cut of 2025 and ended quantitative tightening, though Chair Powell emphasized caution regarding further easing. Market expectations for a December cut fell sharply following his remarks.

The U.S. government shutdown, which began on October 1 and lasted 40 days, disrupted air travel, curtailed food-stamp benefits for 40 million Americans, and weighed on GDP growth. A bipartisan stopgap agreement restored government operations and back pay but excluded an extension of Affordable Care Act premium tax credits.

U.S. markets rebounded after early volatility from the rare earth dispute with China, which initially triggered sharp selling. Investor focus shifted to the temporary truce at the Busan Summit and measures to secure domestic supply chains and rare-earth production.

In commodities, Brent crude oil declined 2.9% to USD 65.1/barrel, while the Dollar Index strengthened 2.1% to 99.80.

U.S. equity valuations remain elevated, near two standard deviations above historical averages, suggesting that, despite liquidity support, volatility may persist amid political, policy, and trade uncertainties. Strategically, we continue to focus on Innovation (AI, semiconductors, automation) themed ETFs, which offer exposure to structural growth trends within a still-liquid but increasingly selective market environment.
